Slight Improvement in the Condition of the President.

HIS STOMACH RETAINS NOURISHMENT AND HE RESTS EASILY.

A Peculiar Swelling of the Throat Gland Causes Some Uneasiness—It Is Regarded by Physicians as Casual and of Little Consequence—Etc., Etc.

[illegible]

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 18.—[illegible]

Private secretary Brown accompanied the [illegible] to the train and says he talked very encouragingly of the president's illness. Previous to leaving the mansion Dr. Agnew had a talk with Mrs. Garfield and informed her that he felt compelled to be temporarily absent. If an emergency should occur he could easily be summoned here. At this hour the president is resting quietly. About three quarters of an hour ago he took a small quantity of koumiss, which was given him by his wife. Up to this time no bad effects have been experienced from it and the patient is now sleeping.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Marshal Jewell called at the mansion last evening and requested to be permitted to see Mrs. Garfield. The request was granted and after returning from private quarters the gentleman said he had informed the lady of his intended leaving the city in the morning and before starting he felt as if he would like to hear some encouraging news and asked the real condition of the president. Mrs. Garfield responded to the question: "Do you think he is better?" with "Indeed I do, I know it."

This reply was emphasized and carried reassurance with it.

Secretary Blaine said last night while he admitted the gravity of the situation he thought there was decidedly good reason to hope for better results from the sick room in the future. In conversation with one of the president's immediate attendants today the attendant remarked: "Contrary to the general impression regarding the president's extreme debility he has without question a great deal of vitality yet and cannot be said to be extremely feeble."

A prominent surgeon said last night he had felt very despondent for ten days previous to the recent relapse but when the condition of the wound was thoroughly explained after the irritability of the stomach had asserted itself he felt that too much attention had been paid to the wound at the expense of the stomach and now that the surgeons had discovered the weakness he anticipated great care would be exercised over the patient's diet in the future and all would go well. His despondency has been turned into hope. Before the mansion was closed last night Dr. Bliss was asked if there would be any more nourishment administered naturally throughout the night: "No," he said, "not until to-morrow. We have made the experiment and are satisfied the tone of the president's stomach has been progressing finely."

Favorable Points.

12:30 P. M.—The president has again eaten a small quantity of koumiss, and retained it. He relishes nourishment and asks for more. He has partaken several times during the morning. At present there are no indications of his being distressed by nausea.

A stronger pulse, better feeling of skin, retention of nourishment derived from enemata, and excellent tone of the president's mind, are mentioned this morning as unmistakable indications that the crisis is past, and the road to recovery again regained. The fact that the president is able to procure refreshing sleep without the use of anodynes is pointed to as one of the most favorable features of his case. Irritation of the stomach has entirely ceased, and it is thought that the patient's thirst will be entirely satisfied by supplying him with food in the ordinary way and by enemata. The wound is considered in healthy way.

Official bulletin, 1:15 P. M.—Following is the official bulletin which has just been sent from the surgeons' room:

12:30 P. M.—The president is suffering some discomfort this morning from the commencement of inflammation of the right parotid gland. In other respects the conditions seem improved, especially his stomach becoming less intolerant. He asked for and retained several portions of liquid nourishment, much more than he could swallow yesterday. The nutritive enemata continue to be used with success. At the present his pulse is 108, temperature 98.4, respiration 18. D. W. BLISS and others.

The 2 P. M. Bulletin.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 18.

Unofficial—As Dr. Hamilton was leaving the White House 5 minutes ago, he said, in response to the question of a representative of the press, that he could not conveniently explain the cause of the inflammation of the parotid gland at this time, but he said it was perfectly proper to state that it was not an indication of any serious complication. It was an unusual occurrence in such cases, and that it caused no alarm whatever to the attending surgeons.

A Common Symptom.

A sensation has been caused by the official report that the parotid gland was inflamed. It is not known yet to what extent this complication will affect the case. Some believe that it denotes the formation of a new pus cavity or abscess by transference, which may indicate pyæmia. The parotid gland is the one at the angle of the jaw usually swelling in mumps.

Dr. Bliss' Views.

New York, Aug. 18.—This morning Dr. Bliss speaking of the condition of the president's wound said: "It is really surprising to see its progress during three days starvation. While all other conditions were at their worst, the wound has been at its best. It is a small matter to build upon, two teaspoonfuls of beef tea, and yet no one can tell how joyfully I watched the result of the test of his stomach. I am almost certain we shall be able to nourish him naturally after to-day."

4:30 P. M.

4:30 P. M.—Unofficial—The president is quiet, and with the exception of experiencing considerable pain from inflammation of the parotid gland, is quite comfortable. He has taken koumiss at intervals all day and has retained it. It is generally maintained by surgeons that inflammation of the gland is not an alarming feature.

The Situation at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Morning bulletins showed that the president was better, and they were received with great satisfaction. The bulletin figures went back to where the president was before the last operation, when he was regarded as improved. His condition seemed to keep up after the morning dressing. After 10 o'clock Col. Rockwell said that the president was better in every respect. At about 11 o'clock Dr. Bliss said that there was a visible improvement, and that the stomach was stronger and better. Up to that hour liquid nourishment had been given several times, and was retained without producing any nausea. The fact that the president enjoyed a pretty good night's rest is considered as a favorable symptom too. There was great anxiety to see the midday bulletin, which was issued an hour later than usual. This delay caused a feeling of alarm. Heretofore whenever there has been delay it was because something has been wrong. The bulletin, when issued, was in guarded language, which added to the general uneasiness. The surgeons saying in the bulletin "that inflammation was commencing" is construed by many to mean that they may expect further inflammation. This new complication of the case has arisen this morning, since Agnew left. It annoys the surgeons. The gland inflamed is the large conglomerated salivary gland under the ear. The president's surgeons do not give any decided opinion as to this aspect of the case but intimate that it is not necessarily serious. Dr. Lincoln and other surgeons who have no connection with the case say that this inflammation indicates a pyæmic condition perhaps, not pyæmia in its literal sense, but a bad condition of the blood consequent upon excessive weakness and general debility. These outside doctors say that inflammation of the parotid gland is very painful and often produces high fever. It is plain that the president's stomach is in decidedly better shape. Its tone has returned. The doctors say that they can gradually increase the nourishment. The wound is doing well and healing rapidly. One of the president's surgeons, when pressed for an answer as to what he thought of this new complication replied that the president had probably caught a little cold and it manifested itself in the swelling of his throat. One of the phases that is remarked as favorable is the improvement in the stomach. If proper nourishment can be taken by the president it is believed he can yet be pulled through despite these complications that arise. This information, however, has caused a feeling of depression that is observable everywhere.

Dr. Bliss' Views.

Dr. Bliss, in response to an interrogation on the subject of inflammation of the president's parotid gland, agrees with Dr. Hamilton that it [illegible] for alarm, and that it is not an [illegible] occurrence in cases where patients become greatly debilitated. He says that it is not indicative of pyæmia [illegible].

9:30 P. M. (official).—The president has done well during the day. He has taken nourishment by the mouth this afternoon with evident relish and without subsequent nausea. There is some rise of temperature, but his general condition is rather better than at this time yesterday. Pulse, [illegible] temperature [illegible], respiration [illegible].

Dr. Bliss Nails a Lie.

Late Reports.

[illegible] P. M.—The [illegible] issued at the executive mansion [illegible] Agnew's departure for Philadelphia [illegible] a decidedly better feeling in [illegible]

[illegible]

Dr. Agnew knew of the swelling of the gland before he left, but did not consider it of sufficient importance to detain him here. The swelling manifested itself last night, and Agnew examined it.

Speaking of the criticisms of Dr. Hammond, of New York, Dr. Bliss said that Hammond applied twice by telegraph to be admitted into the president's case, and was refused on both sides. Hammond feels bitterly towards Barnes because he succeeded him as surgeon general, and this accounts for Hammond's severe talk.

1:45 A. M.—At this hour everything is quiet in the sick room, and doctors are dozing in adjoining apartment.

The Carbon Hill coal mine has been shut down, and will not reopen again until the price of coal in San Francisco justifies its working. The importation of foreign coal during the season is unprecedented, and consequently the price of fuel in San Francisco is down to a very low notch.

Contracts for supplies for the territorial asylum for the insane have been awarded as follows: Beef and mutton, B. The boot and shoe contract will not be awarded till next month.

Captain Morse, of the steamship Dakota, unequivocally denies any knowledge whatever of any infectious or contagious disease being on board of his ship on the last trip of the Dakota. On his arrival at Port Townsend he gave orders for the whole crew and passengers to be mustered for inspection by the health officer; that such inspection was had, and the report favorable. He says that he had no knowledge or suspicion of any case of smallpox being aboard until after his departure from Seattle. Mr. Tibbals, agent of the company, corroborates this statement.

Several cases of smallpox are reported at Astoria.

Wheat is quoted by warehouse men at McMinnville, at 74 and 77 cents per bushel, sacked.

Seaver Ramsby has just cut and threshed 40 acres of wheat on Molalla prairie, which averaged 20½ bushels per acre.

The Imperial mills, Oregon City, after having been shut down for several weeks, are once more running and are ready for the new crop.

Sixteen acres of wheat on C. W. Noblett's place, near Needy, and which he recently sold, has been threshed and averaged 25 bushels per acre.

A barn belonging to Portland Adams, a mile and a half west of McMinnville, was burned one night last week. Something over 20 tons of hay, a gang plow, sulky, rake, hay fork and other farming implements were destroyed. The barn when built a few years ago, cost $1200. The contents were valued at $400. No clue as to the cause of the fire.

McMinnville talks of having an artesian well. A man who understands the business offers to bore 300 feet, and if he does not make a success of it, charge only for his board and the actual expenses of the boring. If he succeeds in bringing water his price is $600. A subscription paper to raise funds for the experiment, is being circulated and liberally signed by citizens of the place.

The Salem Mills Company propose soon to build an elevator with a capacity for 300,000 bushels. It is not expected to be able to complete it in time for this year's crop, but will have it finished in complete order for the next year's harvest. It is proposed to arrange for receiving wheat in bulk, and pass it through cleaners into bins, where it will be kept in store for grinding or future shipment, as the holders of warehouse receipts may elect. This will be a great convenience and saving to farmers in the item of sacks. With this new arrangement farmers can ship their wheat from any point on the railroad in box cars to Salem, where it will be stored, subject to future orders. No wheat will be sold or ground into flour except such as has been sold and the warehouse receipt surrendered. This elevator, in connection with the large warehouse facilities already constructed, will give ample facilities for storing all the wheat that may offer.

The Poncas [illegible] to the secretary of the interior today [illegible] the Poncas [illegible] The Omahas and Winnebagoes reported that they had no lands to spare. The Sioux reported that they have plenty of lands and are willing to give the Poncas all they need without any charge. It was agreed that each Ponca family shall have allotments of Sioux land in northern Nebraska on the Niobrara river. This quick settlement of the question is very gratifying to the department, as the matter was arranged with entire willingness on the part of the Indians. The Omahas and Winnebagoes expressed themselves as favorable to their tribes taking land in severalty and cultivating farms, saying that with some help from the government they can make themselves self sustaining.

Hartmann's Opinion of our Government.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Hartmann, the Russian nihilist, has been here incognito since Wednesday last, and tonight, as he was leaving for Detroit, was interviewed by a Tribune reporter. He said that he had traveled under an assumed name to avoid Russian spies, who are constantly dogging him; that he did not come to revolutionize this country, but to investigate certain points that he intends to remain some months, but that so far he is not favorably impressed with the system of government here, which is on too small a pattern and too weak to set up as a model.

A Brutal Murder.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The Times special says: Willie Cantwell, a lad residing near Peoria [illegible] while carrying some potatoes along the road, was seized by a middle aged man [illegible] to the railway track with a rope. [illegible] the train came round the curve. The boy was struck by the pilot, [illegible] The man then cut and threw away the rope and fled into the woods, being seen by the passengers. The train was backed up and the lad found [illegible] in the ditch. He died soon afterward, and the father [illegible] afternoon. The perpetrator was caught [illegible] and [illegible] by the train hands. He may be lynched.

New York Markets.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The Times says: When the money stringency was relieved in the last hour [illegible] change in the tone of the market from weakness to strength, and in dealings the rush to buy was as eager as it [illegible] earlier in the day. It is true that buying was largely to cover shortage, although it begins to look as if strategy is [illegible] work for the purpose of getting large stocks in view of the settlement of trunk line difficulties, which may be near. There was a marked turn for the better at the close. At the produce exchange there was a renewal of the excitement noticeable of late, and an effort of the shorts to cover drove prices up from 1¾ to 4 cents, the greatest rise being in oats. Wheat closed weak at an advance, while corn and oats were firm. Flour advanced from 2 to 15 cents per barrel. Pork was firm and lard again higher.

RIVER AND HARBOR WORK.

Col. Gillespie's Report showing Work done in Oregon and Washington last year—Appropriations asked for next year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The annual report of Col. Gillespie, engineer in charge of river and harbor improvements in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, for the year ending June 30, 1881, has just been received here. Operations on the lower Willamette and Columbia rivers in Oregon from Portland to the sea are given in detail. The work of timber construction, suspended in December last, the report says cannot be resumed until after the next low water season. Col. Gillespie suggests as a still further improvement to the entrance to the Willamette river the construction of a small submerged dam behind Nigger Tom island. The dredge used at Swan island having been worn out, will be replaced before next low water season, by a powerful and good dredge. The money available for this improvement during the next fiscal year report is so small that the allotment for renewing dredges will be limited to the manufacture of machinery and construction of a new hull and appliances. The past appropriations for this work, including that of March, 1881, have aggregated $406,365, of which amount there has been expended, up to June 10, '81, $305,627. The unexpended balance will be applied in building and running the new dredge during the present year and in purchase of material for the protection and preservation of existing improvements. The report recommends an appropriation of $100,000 for improvement of rivers, exclusive of the bar at the entrance to the Columbia river.

Referring to trade statistics, the report says that the introduction of large capital to be used in building railroads through the productive areas of Oregon and Washington and Idaho territories, to make connection with eastern systems of railroads, and developing coal and lumber interests, has caused a great increase in the value of imports over the Columbia bar, and it is expected that the commerce of the northwest will, in the next five years, greatly increase. It is highly important, therefore, that the Columbia and Willamette rivers should be kept in navigable condition equal to the wants of the growing commerce.

On the upper Willamette and Yamhill rivers, $24,000 was expended during the year in continuing the improvements, and $[illegible] was available for future operations. It is estimated that $[illegible] is yet required to complete existing projects, and an appropriation of $10,500 is recommended to continue these improvements during the fiscal year. In the upper Columbia and Snake rivers, Oregon, more than $15,000 was expended during the year, and $20,000 is recommended, as the amount of appropriation for the next fiscal year.

The work of constructing a canal around the cascades of the Columbia, which will open free navigation to the Dalles, has been pushed forward vigorously during the year, and nearly $7[illegible] has been expended [illegible]. There is still needed $[illegible] to complete the work, and $[illegible] is recommended as the appropriation for the ensuing year.

On Coquille [illegible] bay harbor, [illegible] nearly $25,000 was expended during the past year. Nearly $17,000 was available at the close of the year. $900,000 is still required to complete the projected improvements, and $[illegible] to be expended during the fiscal year. On Yaquina bay improvements $[illegible] was expended during the last year. It is estimated that $417,000 is yet required to complete the work and $[illegible] is asked for the next fiscal year.

Office-Seeking Grown to be a National Vice.

[Philadelphia Record.]

The worst feature of the present expedients and arbitrary plan of making federal appointments is the encouragement of office seeking. Of course the efficiency of the public service suffers for the lack of permanency of tenure, but this and other resultant evils which might be named are slight in comparison with the widespread individual ruin that is wrought to the multitude of applicants for place. The mischief is not of recent origin; nor is it more harmful now, perhaps, than it was years ago, excepting in so far as the great increase in the number of offices has multiplied its victims.

Whether the man who gets an appointment is better off in the long run than is the man who fails to get one it is difficult to say, so far as independence of character, self-reliance and true manliness may be considered valuable. There can be no doubt that these qualities are more likely to belong to him who shifts for himself in the struggle with the world and wins his way amongst his fellows without the help of patronage. The art of making an honest living and getting on in life by merit instead of influence [illegible] is the best basis of an ultimate career.

To View Railroad Work in British Columbia.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Sir Charles Tupper, minister of railways and canals for the Dominion of Canada, accompanied by a party of friends, arrived in this city yesterday en route to British Columbia. Under the agreement between [illegible] Dominion government, paying them $20,000 cash and [illegible] acres of land.

Sir Charles Tupper states that the object of the delegation sent by the British Columbian government [illegible] to urge the Dominion government to construct a line of railroad from Esquimalt, on Vancouver island, to Nanaimo, the center of the island coal district. The party expect to leave for Victoria on the return, returning by way of Portland.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION IN OHIO.

[Cincinnati Gazette.]

The advance temperance thinkers who are represented by the prohibitionists, with such intense and uncompromising leaders as Dr. Leonard, demand prohibition pure and simple, and express a determination to be satisfied with nothing short of that. They even go further in that they refuse to cooperate with or countenance those who, in the interest of temperance, favor the regulation of the liquor traffic with a view to diminishing the evils resulting from the use of intoxicating drinks. Their leaders are so intent upon the idea of prohibition that they have, in their journals, denounced as worse than free traders those who favor the use of tax, or regulation of any kind. They regard the use of intoxicating liquors as a sin in itself, and all who recognize it by tax or license as sinners. These are the prohibitionists, and they are as uncompromising as they are earnest. It is the party that made the ticket at Cleveland, which it is not expected to elect, but with which it is proposed to chastise the republican party by restoring the democratic party to control in Ohio. In this way it is sought to place prohibitionists on one side of the line and all other classes on the other. The Dr. Leonard leaders object to the republican party because it does not adopt prohibition principles, and they use their influence against all proposals that fall short of their extreme ideas. As a consequence there has been no success in the temperance cause. For thirty years the movement has been backward rather than forward. The great mass of the people do not believe prohibition practicable. It has been tried in various places under the most favorable circumstances, and wherever tried it has substantially failed. There are many temperance laws on the Ohio statute books, which, if enforced, would suppress the retail traffic in distilled liquors. Why are they not enforced? Dr. Leonard tells us they are not enforced because public sentiment is not sufficiently strong. But if public sentiment is not sufficiently strong to enforce the laws we have, whence is the strength to come from to pass and enforce laws up to the ideal standard of the prohibitionists?

In 1851 the ultra temperance [illegible] and the retail liquor dealers combined to vote into the constitution a clause prohibiting license, and they have since combined to keep it there. What is the result? For thirty years there has been virtual free trade in liquor and the total waste of intemperance has grown. Is not this a fact? If this is what prohibition agitation has accomplished in thirty years, and all it has accomplished, is it not time to try something else? And is it not time for practical temperance men to try new leaders or a new policy? If Ohio can not have prohibition, and it having been clearly and repeatedly demonstrated that prohibition does not prohibit, is it not time to give regulation a trial? If the Pond tax bill had passed in proper shape last winter the immediate effect would have been to have reduced the number of saloons in Hamilton county one-half, and it would have given to the people of rural districts, with public sentiment at their back, the power to tax saloons out of existence. That would have been a gain. It would have been a very great gain. We are sure it would greatly improve the morals of Cincinnati to wipe out [illegible] the worst saloons and place the rest under such restrictions that they would be closed on Sunday. There might have been such a law but for the aid given to the democratic party by the prohibitionists.

Now, the republican party favors in their platform an amendment to the constitution striking out the anti-license clause, which, if accomplished, would leave the whole matter in the hands of the people through the legislature, to prohibit, license, tax, or regulate. To this the prohibitionists are bitterly opposed. [illegible]

THE TENINO MOUNDS AGAIN.

[illegible] only to add a few words on to my [illegible] [illegible] an invitation to say anything [illegible]

[illegible] I might say that [illegible] with a view to their research [illegible] my own opinion, however [illegible] Nothing has yet has been done [illegible] except a few [illegible] a single spot, large it is true but yet entirely apart by itself, located so that there is no other grouped [illegible] at least none of which we have heard for hundreds of miles. 2d, that the mounds are all circular, nearly uniform in size, as well as in shape; 3d, that their height is also nearly uniform, averaging about [illegible] feet above the plain on which they are erected. 4th, that their disposition in various long or oval rows shows design and makes it impossible to admit that they might be the eddyings of the winds or the abrasions of the floods as the learned professor suggests. 5th, that the scrupulous careful exclusion of stones from the mounds themselves and their being left to cover the excavated ground shows a persistent purpose, a conviction on the part of the builders, that those stones should be excluded from the mounds. This latter fact is very strong and likewise goes far to prove design, a design of which one of the most intelligent animals, such as the beaver, might possibly be capable, but the works being evidently not due to them or any others, we are inevitably thrown back upon the conclusion that man was the designer. 6th, finally the erosion theory is set aside because the ground on which rest the Tenino mounds is an almost level plain, on whose face surface water could never attain sufficient momentum, even to cut ravines in the soil, still less elevations of such uniform shape. As for the timber retreating on account of the increasing dryness of the atmosphere, this view is certainly incorrect in the case of the Tenino mounds, which are the ones more especially the subject of this discussion. In their case the timber has not retreated; the whole district occupied by them is surrounded by heavy, tall and handsome timber, very thick and not unfrequently rising to a height of two hundred feet or more, sometimes nearly three hundred. Indeed it would seem, were it not that we imagine the mounds to be very ancient, as if the timber had been purposely removed in order to make room for the mounds. The probability in my mind is that there was at this place in ancient times a storm prostrating the timber of this particular district, what is called a wind fall, and the fire running among the prostrate timber, as it did at Keewaunee, Wisconsin, and other places, burnt roots and all, permitting the building of mounds which would otherwise have been impossible. "Oak grubs growing thickly around the decaying roots of their sires" would evidently be inadequate to the production of such mounds and, placed in such manner as those at Tenino. This position must be at once dismissed as untenable; it could not produce such regular forms, the perfect regularity of form in the mounds is a stubborn fact. The soil of the mounds, where the grading of the narrow gauge railroad has cut into them, appears to be uniform as far as the cut went; I have [illegible] Webster defines loam as a composition of sand and clay mixed by carbonate of lime. The soil appears to me to be simply volcanic ashes drifted during the glacial period, gravel appearing [illegible], being present only in spots.

The extensive patches of the original surface not raised into mounds, remnants of the whole [illegible] from which they were cut, proves absolutely nothing in favor of Prof. Condon's view, but much in favor of my view of the question, for if elemental erosion had been the cause of the mounds, the whole surface would show the [illegible] marks [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] as was the case with the low swales, which were soft and marked, while mounds exist all along the high [illegible] bordering them on both sides.

If the mounds were due to retreating timber belts, they would be found to prevail in belts; but far from this being the fact, the mounds are essentially localized and in a very few places, if there exists [illegible] tracts of mounds. Prof. [illegible] says of the Oregon mounds: "This and many other facts point to a connection between their formation and the slow retreat of the timber belt from the Des Chutes region towards the foothills of the Cascade mountains." In an inquiry of this nature it would be better to state those facts, if they bear upon the case they should be communicated.

It may be stated in conclusion that mounds, wherever found on the North American continent, especially along the valleys of the Mississippi and the Ohio, but everywhere, have proved upon investigation to have invariably been erected as the resting places of the dead. Although not an absolute proof in the case we are considering, I claim that this fact is a strong indication pointing in the direction of the view I am advocating.

Mining Operations.

VIRGINIA, Aug. 18.—This morning the valve in the Savage bulkhead was opened and the water allowed to flow unrestrained. Last evening the gauge at the bulkhead showed no pressure, whereas previous to opening the valve it indicated 126 pounds to the square inch. The hydraulic pump was last evening running smoothly at eight strokes per minute. During the afternoon they forced it up to a little over nine strokes. Running at eight strokes it pours out a steady stream of 115 miners' inches. It is expected that by 9 o'clock to-morrow morning all the dead water behind the bulkheads will have passed out. They are now drifting north on the body of quartz cut by the Sutro folks 300 feet east of the Yellow Jacket shaft. They are already finding some very rich fine ore. It is black sulphuret in bright white quartz. It is a prospect that is likely to lead to a valuable deposit of ore to the northward. The work of cleaning out the main south drift on the 2600 foot level of Chollar and Potosi is about completed. The Savage folks will now start in at once on their lower levels. They can take out paying ore at once from a portion of the large body of quartz cut in the main Sutro tunnel. The Union pumps are running all right, and all is about as usual at the north end.

The Bonapartist Cause.

[illegible] The [illegible] of the prince imperial was a great blow to the Bonapartist cause, but a cause which survived Waterloo, St. Helena and Sedan must possess an imperishable vitality. Napoleon died, but Bonapartism lived. Prince Napoleon is only [illegible] in France, and is accepted only as a necessity. It was an act of historical justice that the grandson of the divorced Josephine should succeed Napoleon, and a similar act of historical justice may be in store for the grandson of the divorced Madame Patterson Bonaparte. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte of Baltimore, the hero of the Crimea and the defender of Paris, may restore the empire which was lost at Sedan and reign over the French people as Napoleon V.

Colossal Straddling.

[Boston Herald.]

If an honest confession is good for the soul, the immortal part of our contemporary, the New York Times, ought to be in a healthy condition. In commenting upon the failure of the timid Ohio democrats to manifest the courage of their convictions in a demand for a tariff for revenue only, the Times says: "In any attempt to 'straddle' the tariff issue the Ohio republicans can beat the democrats of that state or any other nine times out of ten." Correct, and upon any other issue that has two sides might truthfully be added. The leg-reach of the Buckeye vote-catchers is something immense. The Colossus of Rhodes was a pigmy to them.

Catarrhal

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1. That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local, and after constitutional.

2. That, being Constitutional, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3. That impurities in the nostrils, are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa, and Consumption.

5. That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations, and Insoluble Snuffs, cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6. That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

EDUCATION AND CRIME.

[illegible] A notable paper on this subject was presented before the National Educational association recently held at Atlanta, by J. P. Wickersham, formerly superintendent of schools in Pennsylvania. It is published in full by the Lancaster (Pa.) Examiner. The writer shows that of 187 convicts received into the eastern penitentiary of Pennsylvania in 1879, 39 only had ever attended public schools, 12 had received some education in private schools, 7 had studied in high schools and 5 had attended colleges, while the larger number had never attended schools of any kind. None of the high school or college students had been graduated. Of 2307 persons convicted and sentenced to the jails and workhouses of the state in 1879, only 13 had attained any high degree of education, and it was doubtful whether any of these had been graduated from a high school or college. In 1879 and 1880, 571 convicts were admitted to the western penitentiary of Pennsylvania, and of these only 3 were regarded by the prison authorities as having received superior education. More than one-sixth of the convicts admitted to two Pennsylvania penitentiaries in 1879 and 1880 were wholly illiterate. Mr. Wickersham's conclusions, reached after an examination of the relations of education to crime in other states, are that one-sixth of all the crime in the country is committed by persons wholly illiterate, and one-third by persons practically illiterate, and that the proportion of criminals among the illiterate is about ten times greater than among those who have been instructed in the elements of a common school education or beyond. In support of his views he quotes Dr. Wines, an acknowledged authority on this subject, and adds that of those persons committed to prison in 1872, in the British Isles, 40,345 could not read or write, 72,128 could read and write imperfectly, 4,893 could read and write with some proficiency, and 263 had received a higher education. The fact is that while education may increase the power to do evil, it greatly checks or counteracts the tendency to it. Happily the argument that education of children should be avoided lest it develop in them some criminal tendency, is now obsolete. But akin to it is the argument that the public schools ought to be avoided because they are "godless" and therefore dangerous. In a strong article showing that the public schools are not amenable to the charge of "godlessness," the Pacific Christian Advocate says: "They (the schools) teach science, but science is full of God. As we understand it, God is in it and through it, above it and below it, before it and behind it. Science only discloses God's modes of working and acting. There can be no godless science. They teach literature and history, but God pervades all this. History is but God's steppings down the ages and epochs of the past. In short there is absolutely nothing taught in our public schools that is truly open to the charge of godlessness." The charge, therefore, that the public schools are "godless," without morality, and consequently dangerous, is as unsound as the assertion that the spread of knowledge increases the tendency to crime.

PRISON MANAGEMENT.

The legislature of California at its last session appointed a committee to investigate the subject of prison management. The testimony taken by it is being reported by the public press. The opinions of William Neilsen, who has had experience in prison management in Australia, and whose views show him to be conversant with the workings of the penal institutions of England and most other countries, were among those that should attract attention. He said that the prisons of California, which we may suppose to bear a close resemblance to those of most of our states, are in about the same condition as were those of Great Britain fifty years ago. No subject, he remarked, has been so well discussed in England as the science of penology. The principle has become well established that a prison should have a dual character. The first thing is that it should be deterrent, and second, reformatory, carrying out, first of all, the idea of deterrent punishment. The prisoner, when incarcerated, if he be a man of bad character, must be taken hold of, and new and better ideas instilled into him. He should first be placed in a solitary cell from four weeks to nine months. He should see no human being but his chaplain, and even his food should be left for him by some one who cannot see. He is left to his own reflection, except when twice a week he is visited by his moral instructor. This instructor must be a man capable of gaining the respect of the convict, and he must be able to find the weak spot in his moral nature. After the convict has been in a cell, say six weeks, work should be given him that can be done in his cell. The work should be something requiring patience and industry. He should be allowed due credit for work properly done. The second step is to place him with others in a silent room, where no prisoner is allowed to speak with another. Here, if good and bad men are mixed together, they cannot talk. Men are compelled to keep apart. They thus gain a certain government over themselves. The labors of Crofton and others have given the English prisons a reformatory character. Crofton, on being allowed to work out his plans in the Irish prisons, reduced the percentage of reconvictions from 65 per cent. to 7. All know from observation how many men, on being discharged from prison, commit further crime, and are sent back. In Oregon it is common to find instances in which discharged criminals are received back at the prison in a few weeks or months. Any course of discipline or management that tends to reduce the number of reconvictions must be admitted to be a good thing for the state. Study of the subject from experience elsewhere is the surest and quickest guide to desired results.

To show the growth and present condition of the barge system of St. Louis, the Globe-Democrat of that city says: Grain cannot be hauled from points 250 miles east of St. Louis and delivered in New York at a profit for less than 21 cents per bushel. The same grain can be hauled west to St. Louis, 250 miles, and shipped to New Orleans for 9 cents a bushel, and yield the railroad company a gross revenue of 1 cent per ton per mile, and the barge lines a rate of freight which, with a good stage of water, can be rendered highly remunerative. When present obstructions have been removed the Globe-Democrat believes that grain can be profitably carried from St. Louis to New Orleans for 3 cents a bushel. The storage capacity of St. Louis will enable it to easily handle 58,000,000 bushels in a year. The barge lines now in operation, we are also told, can transport 4,200,000 bushels a month, and there will soon be ready 24 new barges able to carry 1,420,000 bushels a month. Hence it is concluded that St. Louis must control the grain shipments of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, southern Iowa, and of central and southern Illinois.

Democrats of Mississippi have nominated Gen. Robert Lowry for governor. All the elements of opposition combined in his support against the present governor, who was connected with the representative of the Lamar, or moderate wing of his party. It is possible that this action will lead to a [illegible] in which the republicans will occupy a position similar to that they held in Virginia during the contest which resulted in Mahone's triumph.

Once more the condition of the president is such as to give rise to a fair degree of hope. All obtainable information is given in detail in the telegraphic reports. It seems now fairly probable that if the function of digestion and nutrition is actually resumed he will recover. A day or two more will decide.

The dictionary definition of "koumiss" is "a liquor made among the Calmucks by fermenting mare's or camel's milk, from which they obtain, by distillation, an intoxicating spirit." It is something perhaps little resembling this that is being given to the president under the name of "koumiss."

Oregon has fewer holders of national bonds than any other state, the number being 14. Massachusetts has the highest number—16,855. But in the amounts held New York is far ahead of Massachusetts.

Body Recovered.—The body of Theodore Potts, late engineer of the Gold Dust, who, at the time the bolt heads of the boiler were blown out, leaped overboard and was drowned, has been recovered. The remains were brought to this city Wednesday, and taken to the morgue. Coroner Garhold was notified, for the purpose of holding an inquest. On making an investigation of the case the coroner found he had no jurisdiction in the matter, as the man had met his death outside of the county. Mr. Garhold decided, therefore, not to hold an inquest. At the request of Mrs. Potts Drs. Watkins and Saylor made an examination of the body of deceased and found that he had been severely scalded. The funeral will take place to-day.

Sample of Wheat.—A small box has been sent to this office from Yakima City, by Mr. Wm. D. Ogdete, a young gentleman who formerly lived in Portland, containing wheat and a specimen of "Indian bread." The following note accompanied the box: Enclosed please find a sample of spring wheat raised on Polly & Imbrie's "Cottage Glen" farm, on the Attanum river, Yakima county. After this wheat got about one and a half feet high, twenty head of horses and some calves and twenty head of hogs were pastured on it for about two weeks. The amount of ground is about two acres. The wheat is called the Chilt Club variety. Also please find some Indian bread, made from roots and dried in the sun.

E. has also increased in average attendance, the enrolled members are 430, average attendance 260. North Portland M. E. mission has about 35 members, average attendance 33. East Portland M. The "Joseph Kellogg."—Workmen are busily engaged in completing the cabins of Capt. Kellogg's new steamer. The purpose of the owner is to have the steamer completed by the 15th of September. The dimensions are, 128 feet long, 5½ feet hold and 31½ feet beam. The steamer when completed will have ten staterooms besides the purser's room, offices, pantries, etc. As she sits on the water she presents a perfect model of architectural beauty. The engine of the steamer Dayton, after undergoing thorough repairs, will be used in the new boat, and when completed she will be named for her owner, Joseph Kellogg.

Mr. Sheridan.—This great actor and support will leave San Francisco on the "State" the 24th. He will be supported by the charming young actress, Miss Rose Keene, and a carefully selected company, fifteen in number. The following is his repertoire for the week: Louis XI, Macbeth, Richard III, Richelieu, Othello, Hamlet, Merchant of Venice and "New way to pay old debts," Mr. Sheridan playing Sir Giles Overreach. This undoubtedly will be one of the greatest dramatic events which has ever occurred in Portland.

Remains Exhumed.—Last week the body of Thos. Dalton, one of the unfortunate waiters on the steamer S. R. Thompson, who was drowned from a small boat at the Cascades was recovered and buried by the coroner near where it was found. The body has been exhumed by a brother of the deceased and brought to this city in a casket. To-day the remains will be consigned to rest in St. Mary's cemetery.

Sentences Commuted.—Gov. Thayer has recently commuted the sentences of Jack Snelling, sent from Multnomah county for two years from Nov. 1, 1879, for assault with a dangerous weapon, and M. W. Gilbreth, sent from Jackson county for the term of five years from June 19, 1877. Both commutations were granted on account of good conduct and term of sentence being nearly expired.

A Big Stick.—Yesterday afternoon an immense stick of sawed timber was taken across Stark street ferry from this to the other side. The stick is 65 feet long and 20 inches square, and was cut at Smith Bros. sawmill. It is sawed from a large yellow fir trunk without knot or blemish. The stick will be used for the new dredge now being completed above the foot of L street.

Indecent Assault.—A man named Alfred Sanders was arrested yesterday afternoon and taken before Justice Bushwiler. Sanders is accused of making an indecent assault on the person of a little girl not 5 years of age. In default of bail the defendant was committed to the county jail to await an examination, which will be held this morning before Justice Bushwiler.

Basket Picnic.—Under the auspices of North Pacific Lodge No. 314, I. O. B. B., an excursion and basket picnic will be given to Vancouver City Park on Sunday, August 21st. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the cemetery fund. The steamer Washington has been chartered for the occasion, and will leave the foot of Morrison street at 9 A. M.

Tenth Anniversary.—The tenth anniversary of the Portland Social Turn Verein will be celebrated at Turn Halle Sunday evening, August 21st. There will be a grand gymnastic exhibition in conjunction with a concert. The exercises will be followed by a ball. Tickets may be had at Alisky & Hegele's ice cream saloon, the Arion, and at the hall.

Representing the Journal.—Mr. Wm. H. O'Donald, who is connected with the business department of the Walla Walla Journal, has been in Portland for the past week canvassing for that paper. He reports having met with very gratifying success. Mr. O'Donald will leave for Walla Walla this morning.

Machinery Disabled.—A few days ago the steamer Calliope went up into Vancouver lake after a barge load of railroad ties, but before getting out, some of the engine machinery became disabled. One of the crew was put ashore in a small boat, and came to Vancouver for a machinist to go down and put the machinery in working order again.

Voted Down.—A resolution was introduced by Councilman Nickiin at the council meeting last night to include evening dailies in the bids for the city printing. The resolution was rejected by a tie vote—ayes, Holman, Honeyman, Kellogg and Nicklin; noes, Chittenden, Geddes, Keller and Raleigh.

Executive Appointments.—Gov. Thayer has made the following executive appointments: Notaries public—J. L. Collins of Dallas, Robt. S. Bean of Eugene City, W. O. Palmer of Albany, J. T. Maulsby of Tillamook, and D. L. Jaine of Portland; commissioner for Oregon, Hamilton D. Clark of Medford, Mass.

Incorporated.—The Independent Order of Odd Fellows Building Company, of Dufur, Oregon, has filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. Capital stock $1500. Incorporators, Enoch B. Dufur, Thos. A. Ward and Robt. B. Miller.

An order has been issued for the nine best mounted shots in the department to report at San Francisco, to contest for a division prize on Oct. 1st.

Lieut. B. F. Hancock, 2d infantry, was in New York city a short time ago, as also was Lieut. Otto L. Hein, 1st cavalry, both on short leave from their stations.

The wife of Chaplain David Wills, U. S. A., whose sickness caused his sudden return to Washington from Walla Walla, died on the 27th July, before he could reach home.

An order has been issued relieving Capt. J. Q. Adams, 1st cavalry, from the duties of depot Q. M., to take effect Sept. 30. Where Capt. Adams goes from here is not yet made public.

Dr. F. C. Ainsworth, U. S. A., a few years since stationed at Fort Vancouver, and Mrs. Mary Cranston, were married at the residence of Col. J. P. Martin, of the adjutant-general's department, in San Antonio, Texas, on the evening of July 26. The Army and Navy Register says that Mrs. Ainsworth is a sister of Mrs. Martin, whom she was visiting, and the widow of Lieut. Arthur Cranston, 4th artillery, killed in the Modoc war. We understand that the doctor is to be stationed at Fort McIntosh, Texas. Mrs. A. will be a great addition to the already pleasant garrison of McIntosh.

AMUSEMENTS.

Private Instructions.—Last evening an intelligent and very attentive audience was present at Y. M. C. A. hall to listen to Dr. Truesdell's third lecture on "manhood and womanhood." To-night he will discuss the causes and cure of needless and foolish diseases—to gentlemen only.

Jubilee Singers.—To-morrow evening the Kentucky Jubilee Singers, a combination of genuine colored people—will appear at New Market theater. An exchange says of these singers: "Those who heard the Jubilee Singers last evening have not enjoyed so rich a musical treat for many, many days. In truth the delineations of true negro character as shown in song, dance and farce, cannot be excelled by the best of white imitators. The entire performance was good and some of the songs and choruses were excellent, carrying us back in imagination to the good old campmeeting times in Kentucky forty years ago. Miss Webb sang "Way Down on the Swanee River," and was loudly applauded, and as an encore, "My Old Kentucky Home." She has a sweet and powerful voice, possessing great compass, and sings with much feeling."

THE ROBESON TRIAL.

The Examination of Witnesses Public Interest in the Case Unabated.

Third Day.

[illegible]

Wm. Brisley testified that he was present when [illegible] purchased the [illegible] heard the [illegible] that he [illegible] goods he had sold, and after he had got it he intended to kill him, he told him to [illegible]

[illegible] Morrison [illegible] to the effect that they had heard Robeson threaten to kill Robb [illegible]

Mr. John Robson was the last witness placed on the stand to testify in reference to Robeson's threats toward Robb. He stated, in substance, that Robeson had for some time before the killing frequently related to him his grievances against Robb, connecting them with his partnership troubles with James Williams of Tansy Point. He said Robb had engaged to be his attorney and went back on him, and then acted as counsel for Williams. He also referred to trouble with Robb in reference to some transactions between them in regard to fishermen's licenses. That he had collected money in which he (Robeson) was interested, and he could not get his percentage of it. Did not detail all the circumstances but said Robb had gone back on him and he would get even with him.

Three witnesses were sworn to prove that Robeson was seen near the building in which was Robb's office, about the time he was shot. The most important testimony on this point was that of Mr. D. A. MacIntosh, who stated—I am a tailor, and my shop is in the Occident hotel building. I was working there on the day Robb was shot. My shop is very nearly opposite the side stairway of the building in which was Robb's office. On the afternoon of the 25th of April last I saw Mr. Robeson come down that stairway. A short time after, perhaps 15 minutes, I saw a crowd gather round there and then heard that Robb was dead. I do not know the exact time I first heard he was shot, but it was a short time before I saw Chief of Police Barry arrest Robeson in front of the hotel.

The importance of the testimony of this witness subjected him to a prolonged cross-examination by Mr. Lair Hill, without, however, producing any variation in his evidence.

Before resting their case the prosecution recalled Coroner Franklin, who testified that on examination of the body of deceased at the coroner's inquest, a revolver was found on Robb's person fully loaded and in his hip pocket. He took charge of it, and had it now in exactly the same condition as when taken from Robb's pocket. The pistol, which is a Smith & Wesson revolver, No. 2, was then produced, fully loaded, and accepted in evidence.

Prosecution rested their case and court adjourned till 7 P. M.

At the evening session the courtroom was more densely crowded than ever,—75 or 100 ladies occupied the front seats, attracted, probably, by a curiosity, which is wide spread in the community, to know what line of defense the able counsel of the defendant had decided to adopt.

The first witness called was Mr. Spevarth. He was asked by Mr. Hill, "Were the fishermen's licenses referred to in the progress of this trial deposited with you for safe keeping?"

Objected to by prosecution. After able arguments by counsel on both sides, Judge Stott sustained the objection. Counsel for defense excepted to the ruling, and said he had other questions to ask subject to the ruling of the court. Mr. Hill was allowed to proceed, and witness cautioned not to answer without instructions from the court.

Did you before the killing of Mr. Robb place those licenses in his hands?

Objected to. Sustained. Exception taken to ruling.

Did the value of the licenses you handed to Mr. Robb represent an amount of $800 to $850? Objected to. Sustained. Exception taken.

Two other questions relating to the same subject were put by counsel for the defense, and met with a similar fate, after which the witness was allowed to retire.

W. H. Headington was then sworn. Am a builder and contractor; am acquainted with the building in which was Robb's office. Counsel for defense produced a plan of the building, which witness identified as one he had delineated, and stated it was correct in every particular.

Frank J. Taylor was called and testified that the plan of the building was substantially correct. Witness then, at request of counsel, marked on the plan the locality of rooms, also position of Robb's table and of his body as it was found by him after the shooting.

Headington recalled: Gave dimensions of rooms, hall-way, awning and main building. In reply to counsel, stated: There is a stairway leading from the second floor on which Robb and Taylor's offices were, to the third story; it is large enough for a man to pass up or down; the hall is a straight hall-way running from front to rear.

The defendant's counsel now stated to the court that owing to circumstances, two material witnesses for the defense could not be produced until to-morrow morning, and they therefore asked for an adjournment. In answer to Judge Stott, counsel stated that they expected they would be through with the examination of their witnesses by noon to-morrow, 18th inst.

Court was then adjourned till 9:30 o'clock to-morrow morning.

BARGAIN ROOM FOR CLOTHING.

We can lose profits, but we mustn't lose sales. We have divided our clothing into two parts. One part consists of that which must be sold quickly at whatever price it'll bring quickly in August. The other part consists of that which will go any way. The former is marked down sharply in proportion to the urgency of each case. It consists largely of whole suits for men and boys of all sizes, and parts of odd garments. If we had no other clothing but this which is marked down we should have a large and, we may almost say, a full stock. As good clothing as we have in store is among it.

When the name of Rev. Mr. Butts was called a discussion was raised upon certain views upon the Atonement, the Trinity, and the Holy Spirit, expressed by that gentleman in some articles published in the Pacific Christian Advocate some time ago. Quite a lively discussion occurred in which several of the ministers took part. A motion was made and carried to refer the whole case to a committee of five—Wm. Roberts, N. Doane, I. D. Driver, [illegible] were appointed as such committee.

All the other names were passed and their collections reported.

Puget Sound District was called and Rev. A. Atwood, P.E., represented this district. He took up the circuits and stations within his district in detail and showed quite encouraging results.

Moved and carried that so much of the report as referred to Indian work be referred to committee on Indian affairs.

When the name of Rev. Mr. McCormac was called a committee was appointed composed of Revs. Nicholson, Fairchild and Crowell to inquire into the reason of his having left his work during the year.

The time for adjournment having arrived appointments were made and the days session was ended by the doxology. Meeting of the church extension society this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Conference convenes to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

MARK LANE REPORT.

Rains Delay the Harvest—Clean Crops—Trade Excited; Advance in Prices—Receipts and Sales.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The Mark Lane Express of the 15th says: Rains have everywhere delayed the harvest. Where crops are still standing, ripening was stopped, and mildew, which has generally appeared, thereby increased. Early crops, however, are free from mildew, and are the cleanest since 1868. The first threshing results were disappointing on account of thinness. The feeling of doubt and mistrust as to the harvest has given to the trade a tone of excited expression. Samples of native wheat have been growing scarce, the supply in London during the past week having been only 866 quarters, and rates advanced two to three shillings per quarter. With early and large deliveries of the new crop, a glut was expected at this time, but change in the weather stopping threshing from fields and altering the condition of grain, has prevented a glut during August. Foreign trade off coast stands altogether in favor of sellers. White wheat advanced 2s and other kinds 1s to 2s per quarter. The supply has been moderate off coast. The supply was 21 cargoes, of which 14 were sold forward. Trade is brisk and reasonable offerings are readily taken in all positions. The floating bulk is slowly diminishing. Indian four best marks were 1s to 2s dearer. The foreign supply is very small and rates improved 2s Friday. The barley crop will probably be fair. Sales of English wheat during the week were 10,862 quarters at 46s 9d per quarter, against 15,903 quarters at 44s 4d per quarter for the corresponding week of last year.

English Grain Crops.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—James Caird, an eminent agricultural authority, writes that but for late rains and diminished temperature, harvests would have proved equal to nearly the average of the years preceding 1874, but mildew has appeared and will affect the quality of the yield of later crops. On two-thirds of the wheat land average crops will be made up by fineness of quality. In the remaining third, even with that aid, it will be 10 per cent below the old average. Heavy crops are rare. Most of them are thin but well headed, and there is too common evidence shown throughout the country of diminished capital of farmers by a lower scale of farming. We begin the harvest year very bare of old stock wheat in the country. Our annual requirements are from 24,000,000 to 25,000,000 quarters. When the last harvest year is completed we shall have imported over 6,000,000 quarters. Our own crop this year will probably yield 95,000,000 quarters; so if we can reckon on a foreign supply equal to that of 1880, and at not much over the same price, we shall be safe. There is said to be abundant harvests in Russia. In France the wheat crop is believed to be scanty. Our barley is the best crop of the year, but it has not ripened equally. Oats are extremely deficient, especially in southern counties. Hay is 50 per cent lighter but was generally got in fine condition. Green crops are rapidly improving, and promise a tolerable crop. One of the best features of the season has been fine weather for cleansing ground in the spring and early summer, enabling farmers to rid many of their land of accumulated weeds of previous wet years, but they have been heavily hit by losses of stock and sheep. Stock in Great Britain during the last two years has been diminished by more than 12 per cent, there being a decrease of 2,000,000 sheep and 1,000,000 lambs since 1879.

THE GENUINE

Celebrated American

OR

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine.

As a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Each box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.

Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure-all;" it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, Impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.

ONE PRICE To All! ONE PRICE To All

FACTS THAT ARE UNDENIABLE.

"TO THE VICTOR BELONGS THE SPOILS"

Such is the cry of UNSCRUPULOUS firms, who, in their endeavor to impose upon the credulity of the public, resort to illegitimate means to dispose of their wares. As an illustration, we quote from their advertisements a few of the many devices practiced by them, to-wit: "DOLLAR ARTICLES FOR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS, ROOM WANTED," and what is still more suggestive, EVASIVE LOTTERY SCHEMES, etc.

Influenced, as we are, by the legitimate principles of a square-dealing house, we deem it incumbent upon us to warn the public against the nefarious practices of the GRABBERS. And although it is neither our wish or desire to dictate to them HOW their business SHOULD be conducted, we do object to their sailing under FALSE COLORS. We would call the attention of the public to the glaring advertisements, in which a firm alleging to sell goods at ONE PRICE (!), marks an article one day at $6 50, and the next day at $2 00, and perhaps to-morrow the article may be worth $3 00, in that ONE PRICE (?) establishment. The persons who purchase the article at $6 50 and note the same article advertised on the following day at $2 00, cannot but feel that they have been the victims of imposition and misplaced confidence.

Such procedure surely has not the tendency to win public appreciation or an increase of trade, but manifestly demonstrates the fact that their business IS UNDOUBTEDLY conducted on the "SPOILS SYSTEM:" YOUR MONEY, WITHOUT VALUATION THEREFOR.

Such inconsistencies are against all force of reason.

WE do NOT propose to give excessive valuation of a dollar invested with us, but a DOLLAR'S VALUE OF A DOLLAR'S INVESTMENT. ONE PRICE and EQUALITY OF TREATMENT IS EXTENDED TO ALL, REGARDLESS OF STATION. These are the doctrines by which our business has been governed since our advent as a Portland business firm, and which have won the well-merited support and patronage of the people of the Pacific coast.

YOUNG MEN

WHO MAY BE SUFFERING FROM THE effects of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin, milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.
